"Last week Bill Clement spoke to our Long and Foster Real Estate's top producers and truly exceeded our expectations. His message reached the entire group, especially those unfamiliar with hockey and I have had dozens of people recount his keynote during my office visits over the past week. His call to show appreciation for everyone in an organization manifested itself, as many agents returned to their offices and did exactly that to their coworkers."

I would highly recommend Bill as a speaker for any sales organization. Beyond that, his message works for any group that relies upon teamwork to meet and exceed the expectations of customers, clients, coworkers and the like."

Without a doubt, Bill Clement stands with the elite few at the top of this list. His well-crafted message on everyday leadership is not only relevant to today's business culture, but also pertinent to personal growth on multiple levels. His delivery style is both entertaining and extremely connective. As a keynote speaker, Bill receives my highest possible recommendation. Find a way to get Bill in front of your organization!"
